Can I use one document for both identity and address proof?

□ Can I use one document for both Identity and Address verification?

Yes. You may use one document for both Identity and Address verification if your ID clearly shows your residential address (for example, a driver's license).

However, in some cases, separate documents may still be requested depending on verification requirements.

□ Where can I check the list of accepted documents?

You can refer to the article below for the full list of accepted verification documents:
